[1] Does not include data for administrative offices and other auxiliary units. Includes data for those wholesale establishments which reported an analysis of their sales by class of customer. Of the total sales reported by merchant wholesalers, about 95 percent were analyzed by class of customer. Other types (excluding petroleum bulk stations and terminals) analyzed approximately 91 percent of their sales.

[2] Includes manufacturers' sales branches and offices (with and without stocks), agents and brokers, and assemblers (mainly farm products). Does not include petroleum bulk stations and terminals since they did not report separately their sales to household consumers, but included them with sales to industrial users.

[3] Liquor houses or departments of drug wholesalers included in "Wines and distilled spirits."
